

STUDENT VETERANS TO HOLD REUNION

Meeting of Survivors of Hampden-Sidney Company to Be a Feature of Commencement.

NOTABLE MEN TO GATHER

Thirty Out of the Seventy Who Enlisted Still Living—Features of the Celebration.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
HAMPDEN-SIDNEY COLLEGE, March 14.—A feature of the coming commencement in June of unusual interest, and an event which will eclipse everything else, will be the reunion of the survivors of the Hampden-Sidney Company, raised from among the students by President Atkinson, and captained by him. Soon after the outbreak of the Civil War, the patriotic Atkinson in '61 marched to the front with his white pupils at his back. Most of the command, including President Atkinson, were captured by General McClellan at the battle of Rich Mountain and sent back to college by that magnanimous foe. Many afterwards enlisted in other commands, and among them Dr. W. V. Page, the sergeant of the company, who later in the war raised a cavalry troop, of which he was made captain, and fought through the entire war under Mosby. Dr. Page is much enthused over the proposed reunion, and signifies his intention to be present, as well as his influence to get as large a number of the company together as possible. The roster of the company was, of course, lost when it was captured, and so far all efforts to get a list from the War Department in Washington have proved fruitless. However, from such information as has been gathered from the survivors, it appears that there were seventy in the company (there were only one hundred and thirty students at the college that year), and of these, thirty are living today and have been located. Dr. Page is now an Episcopal clergyman at Cornwall, N. Y.

Every effort will be made to do honor to this company, of which Hampden-Sidney is justly proud. The Hampden-Sidney boys at Rich Mountain should give definite information to the V. M. I. boys at New Market.

Addressed by Mr. Davis.
This company went to Richmond, where it was mustered into service June, 1861, as Company G, Twentieth Virginia Regiment Infantry, and went under command of Colonel John Pegram. When they were mustered in, President Atkinson addressed the boys in the Capitol Square at Richmond, and when they were captured at Rich Mountain, General McClellan gave them a special talk, telling them to go back and finish their studies, and telling President Atkinson "not to destroy his school."

Upon reaching Richmond all boys under eighteen were commanded to quit the company, at which there was great distress among the younger boys. Three of these—Thornton R. Carruthers, of Victoria, Texas; Boaz Ford, now treasurer of Cumberland county, and S. V. Watkins, of Prince George—appealed to the Governor. The Governor asked them to assure him that their parents did not object, and upon being so assured, wrote a special permit to each of the young soldiers, telling them, at the same time, "You boys are crying to get into the army; now I never want to hear of your crying to get out."

The other officers of the company were First Lieutenant John William Jackson, of Stage's Junction; Second Lieutenant Robert G. Hillman, Temple, Third Lieutenant Tazewell M. McCorkle, now a Presbyterian minister of Lynchburg. Dr. Page, as above mentioned, was sergeant.

Dr. Page in a letter received a few weeks since by President Atkinson, gives most of the above information and other very interesting episodes. Among other things, he has this explanation of the well-known kindly feeling which Mr. McClellan always manifested toward the South: That General McClellan was greatly struck by the youth of this company, and the bearing of their gray-bearded captain, and upon finding out that he was a college president with sons of his pupils, he sent for Dr. Atkinson, with whom he had a very long and amicable interview. In this interview President Atkinson put before the general the attitude of the South in a way that McClellan had never before understood it.

It is worth while to note that the engagement in which this company was captured took place July 11, 1861, ten days before the battle of Bull Run, in which some University of Virginia students took part in the morning before the battle of New Market.

The company was paroled soon after its capture, disbanded September 19, 1861, and exchanged 1862, when nearly the entire company joined other commands.

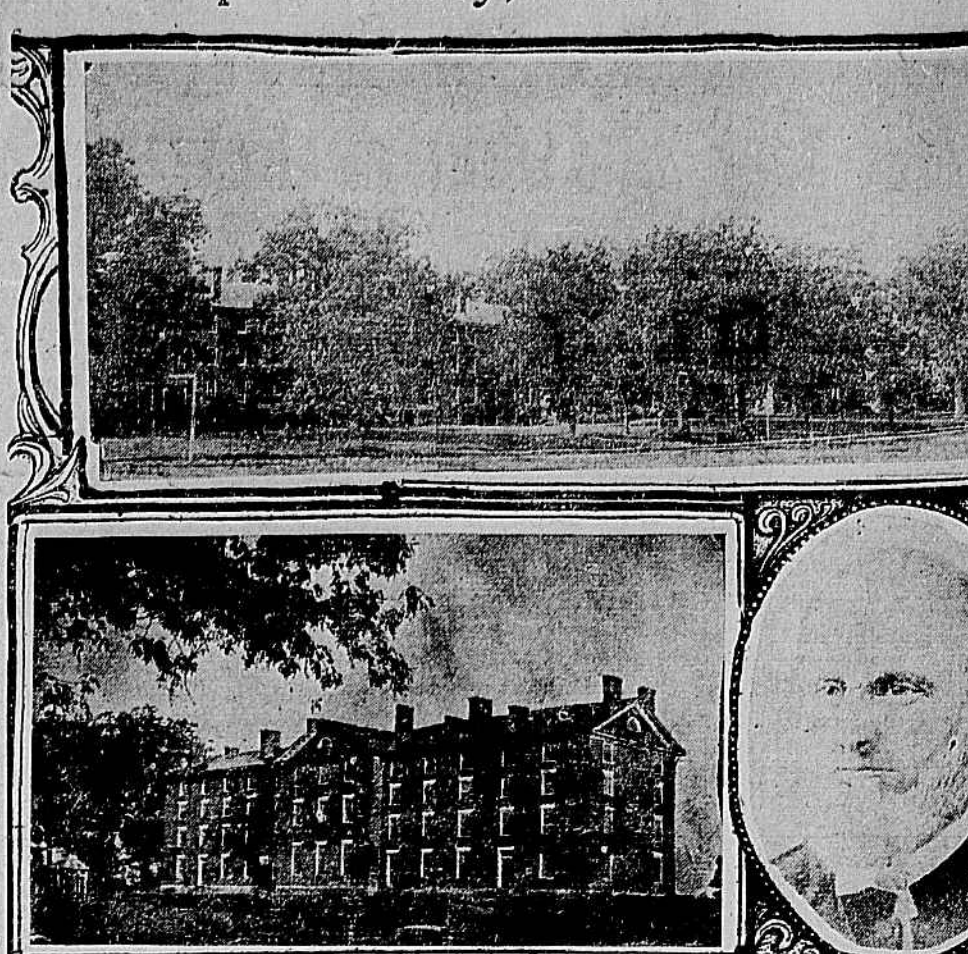

It is a matter of some interest to add that three of this company are now living in the city of Richmond, namely, Robert P. Anderson, Richard W. Flournoy and James G. Tinsley.

Hampden-Sidney, Then and Now

The upper picture gives a general view of Hampden-Sidney, showing Venable Hall, the second dormitory. The lower picture is of Hampden-Sidney as it appeared in 1861. This building is now Cushing Hall, first dormitory.

Washington University, later better known as the president of the Jamestown Exposition, and now likely to be a formidable candidate for Governor of this State.

Hon. William A. Hooper, of the class of '65, now on the bench of the Supreme Court of Florida, will make the address before the Society of Alumni. Mr. Hooper lives at Tallahassee, Fla., and for a number of years has been prominent in the affairs of his State of adoption.

The baccalaureate sermon before the graduating class will be preached by the Rev. Ernest Thompson, of Charleston, W. Va. Dr. Thompson is one of the best known ministers in the Southern Presbyterian Church, and is a pleasing speaker.

Other speakers for commencement are still to be chosen, among them the representatives of the two literary societies.

The March examinations begin on the 14th, and continue until the 21st. Until these are over the work on the diamond will in a large measure cease. All those who were members of the Hampden-Sidney Company, and those who can give definite information of any who were in the company, will confer a favor by sending such information to Dr. J. H. C. Bagby, Hampden-Sidney.

IMPROVE THEIR GROUNDS.
Good Work Done by the Pupils of the Hampden-Sidney High School.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
SCOTTSDALE, Va., March 14.—On Friday afternoon the pupils of the Hampden-Sidney High School, assisted by the citizens of the town, took a "spring cleaning" of the grounds surrounding the building, with very encouraging results. Stumps were uprooted, leftovers of building material cleared away and fallen trees removed. Teams were furnished by the town, and the work was done with hand and hoe and rake, a baseball ground.

An abundant and refreshing banquet of cake, coffee, pie, peanuts, candy and bananas was furnished for the officers by the teachers and mothers of the children. The work was superintended by Mr. W. D. Smith, principal of the school. A plan is projected to lay off flower beds to the south and west of the building, the seeds for these being kindly being made up by T. W. Wood & Sons, of Richmond.

ALBERNE HIGH SCHOOL.
Kent Literary Society Has Pleasant Celebration Including a Debate.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
ALBERNE, VA., March 14.—At its regular meeting the Kent Literary Society rendered the following program:

Reading.....Miss Madge Thomas, Paper on Gen. Lee.....Lewis Ragland. Reading.....Henry Cone. Piano Solo.....Blanche M. Cone. Chorus.....

Debate: "Resolved, That the World Owes Me a Living." Affirmative—Miss Gladys Newcomb, Mrs. Blanche M. Cone. Negative—A. D. Cone, M. A. Martin.

The affirmative speakers strongly championed their side, arguing that what we called the world owes every individual a living in the sense that parents owe their children parental care and protection, asserting that society recognizes this obligation and tries to meet it by providing the best forms of government for State and charitable institutions for the utter helplessness.

The representatives for the negative won the decision by proving to the committee that the terms must be defined according to Blackstone and Webster, and that man must give value for value and put into life just what he expects to receive in return.

Every member of the program was enthusiastically applauded. Before adjournment the following officers were elected for the next term:

James McCarty, Sr., president; Miss Madge Thomas, vice-president; Miss Roberta Buck, secretary; W. E. Gilbert, critic; Miss Grace Kiley, treasurer; J. W. Taylor, chaplain; Rev. Bryant, censor; Alder Martin, janitor.

On the motion of Mr. Gilbert the society voted to buy a Standard Encyclopedia, which will be a valuable addition to the well-equipped library of the school. Arrangements have been made for a debate under the auspices of the Kent Literary Society on April 11th by representatives from Virginia Christian College, University of Virginia, and the local school, full announcement of which will appear later.

COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM FOR TRINITY COLLEGE

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
DURHAM, N. C., March 14.—The commencement exercises this year will be held on Friday evening, June 7th, when the baccalaureate address will be delivered by President John C. Kilgo. Monday afternoon the board of trustees will hold its annual meeting. Tuesday morning, June 8th, at 11 A. M. the commencement sermon will be preached by Rev. Henry Stiles Bradlee, D. D., pastor of St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, South, St. Louis. Tuesday afternoon, June 9th, the Alumni Association will hold its annual meeting. The president of the association is Hon. Lee S. Overman. His address on this occasion will be delivered by William Ivey Crawford, Ph. D., class '91, professor of philosophy in Trinity College.

Tuesday evening the representatives of the graduating class will speak in Craven Memorial Hall. The Wiley Gray, the scholarship and society medals, will be presented at this time. Wednesday morning at 10:30 A. M. the commencement address will be delivered by Walter H. Page, editor of the World's Work, New York. At the same time the president of Craven Memorial Hall, an academic procession will march to the Washington Duke memorial statue, when the unvailing will be placed in place.

On Wednesday afternoon exercises will be held, when the gift from the graduating class is presented. On Wednesday evening a reception will be given in honor of the graduating class in the Duke Building.

The Columbian and Hesperian Literary Societies have made arrangements to hold an intercollegiate debate sometime this spring. The preliminary debate to select speakers will take place March 25th.

College Hour.
The university has recently inaugurated "College Hour"—a single hour that comes once each month—when faculty and students meet together in Cabell Hall, sing songs, practice yells, listen to the organ, and talk. One man does not do it all, but every man has a chance to say what he thinks will be for the good of all. An opportunity is thus afforded to discuss vital and interesting current questions, and to get acquainted. The president of

RANDOLPH-MACON NEWS.

Individual Desks in Halls—Celebration.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
RANDOLPH-MACON COLLEGE, ASHLAND, VA., March 14.—More interest is being taken in the literary societies this year than any time previous. Both halls are going to a large expense of refurbishing and putting in individual desks, similar to those used in the State Legislature. The individual desk idea is entirely original with the literary societies of Randolph-Macon, and will not only add much to the general appearance of the halls, but will enable the members to carry on business in a more parliamentary way.

The Franklin Society rendered the following program this evening: Orator, Logan; declaimers, Beville, Centre, Chinery, Cardozo, and Deshaize. The question for debate was "Resolved, That the Supreme Court should be re-elected by popular vote." Messrs. Newman and Moyer presented the affirmative side of the question, while Messrs. Mosby and Midyette defended the negative.

The program of the Washington society was as follows: Orator, Taylor; essayists, Duluth, declaimers, Elliott, Finch, Fox, Galloway and Gray. The question for debate was "Resolved, That Intercollegiate Athletic Contests Are More Beneficial Than Intercollegiate Debates and Orations." The speakers for the affirmative were Messrs. Hite and Jackson, who were opposed by Messrs. Johns and Maxwell.

The Randolph-Macon Glee Club rendered a most delightful program in the college chapel on Thursday evening. Both the orchestra and double quartet brought forth loud and frequent applause. A large audience was present, and every one pronounced the entertainment to be one of the best musical renderings ever heard in the college. The club is planning to take an extensive trip at an early date.

Mr. and Mrs. Blanton, of Richmond, attended the entertainment of the Glee Club last evening.

WEDDING KEPT A SECRET.

Pretty Staunton Girl Becomes Bride of Student from the West.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
STAUNTON, VA., March 14.—Miss Alice Terry Marr, of this city, and Mr. Curtis D. Broughton, of Minneapolis, former student at the Staunton Military Academy, of this city, were quietly married on March 2d at the home of the officiating clergyman, Rev. W. M. Compas, Mrs. Broughton is a strikingly handsome brunette, and the youngest daughter of Mr. W. T. Marr, who is a well-known architect and builder.

The wedding was kept quiet by the members of the bride's family until Monday, when the groom decided to have a school. The marriage is the result of a romance, the young couple having known each other for only a few months.

Mr. and Mrs. Broughton are at present staying at the home of the bride's parents, as they have not decided on their future plans.

REV. MR. MAXWELL ACCEPTS CALL TO SOUTH BOSTON
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
SOUTH BOSTON, VA., March 14.—Rev. C. W. Maxwell, of Mecklenburg County, N. C., but more recently of Lynchburg, has been called to South Boston, Va., by the Presbyterian Church at this place, and will take up his work with his new charge at once. He has recently been connected with the church at the Presbyterian Orphanage Home in Lynchburg, and comes highly recommended by the church and a large number of friends here, and accepted the call only after a most urgent request, having in hand at the time a number of calls from other churches.

The church has been without a pastor up to this time, for about twelve months, and the members are congratulating themselves that they were fortunate enough to secure his services. Mr. Maxwell fills the vacancy caused by the death of the beloved Rev. Dr. L. B. Johnston.
